About the Fisk Jubilee Singers®

Fisk University opened in Nashville in 1866 as the first American university to offer a liberal arts education to “young men and women irrespective of color.” Five years later, the school was in dire financial straits.

George L. White, then Fisk treasurer and music professor, created a nine-member choral ensemble of students and took it on tour to earn money for the University. The group left campus on October 6, 1871. Jubilee Day is celebrated annually on October 6 to commemorate this historic day.

The first concerts were in small towns. Surprise, curiosity and some hostility were the early audience responses to these young black singers, who did not perform in the traditional “minstrel fashion.”

One early concert in Cincinnati brought in $50, which was promptly donated to victims of the notorious 1871 fire in Chicago. When the chorale ensemble reached Columbus, the next city on tour, the students were physically and emotionally drained. Mr. White, in a gesture of hope and encouragement, named them “The Jubilee Singers,” a Biblical reference to the year of Jubilee in the Book of Leviticus, Chapter 25.

Continued perseverance and beautiful voices began to change attitudes among the predominantly white audiences. Eventually, skepticism was replaced by standing ovations and critical praise in reviews. Gradually, they earned enough money to cover expenses and send back to Fisk.

In 1872, they sang at the World Peace Festival in Boston and at the end of the year, President Ulysses S. Grant invited them to perform at the White House.

In 1873, the group grew to 11 members and toured Europe for the first time. Funds raised that year were used to construct the school’s first permanent building, Jubilee Hall. Today, Jubilee Hall, designated a national historic landmark by the U.S. Department of the Interior in 1975, is one of the oldest structures on campus. The beautiful Victorian Gothic building houses a floor-to-ceiling portrait of the original Jubilee Singers, commissioned by Queen Victoria during the 1873 tour as a gift from England to Fisk.

The ensemble continues to travel around the world, singing the Negro spiritual and representing Fisk University. The two-time Grammy-nominated Fisk Jubilee Singers® have won a Dove Award and have been inducted into the Gospel Music Hall of Fame, as well as into the Music City Walk of Fame.

By a special invitation from the United States Department of State, the Fisk Jubilee Singers traveled to Ghana for the first time in 2007, where they performed to celebrate the 50th independence anniversary of Ghana. This journey was historic and became known as “A Sacred Journey.” One of the venues where the performances took place was on the grounds of Elmina Castle.

In 2008, the Fisk Jubilee Singers were awarded the National Medal of Arts by former President George W. Bush at the White House. Other awards the Fisk Jubilee Singers® have garnered include the Governor’s Award, the Recording Academy Honors and the Heritage Award of the Nashville Music Awards.

Oral Moses, bass-baritone, performs regularly throughout the United States and Europe singing Oratorio and recitals with special emphasis on Negro Spirituals and Art Song repertoire by African-American composers.

In Oratorio and Opera, he has performed major roles in Le Nozze di Figaro, Regina, La Boheme, Albert Herring, Tremonisha, Rigoletto, and Die Zauberflöte. Symphonic engagements have included works with the Nashville Symphony, the Jackson Symphony, Detroit Symphony, Lansing Symphony, Tacoma Symphony and the Atlanta Symphony. He has toured Eastern Europe, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Berlin singing the role of Porgy in Porgy and Bess.

He has recorded CDs of art songs and spirituals by African-American composers, among which is his last CD entitled, Oral Moses sings... songs of America. His CD, Extreme Spirituals, is a collaboration with the controversial eclectic rock/classical band Birdsongs of the Mesozoic on Cuneiform label. In 2001, Albany Records released a collection of spirituals. He sang, "Spirituals in Zion," which he recorded in the historic Zion Baptist Church built by enslaved African Americans in 1861. As a solo recording artist for Albany Records, his premiere CD, Deep River: Songs and Spirituals of Harry T. Burleigh, is featured in the PBS film documentary, Antonin Dvorak in America. His second CD, Amen! African-American composers of the Twentieth Century, continues to be a best seller. He has collaborated with gospel artist, Babbie Mason, on the CD/Video project, Treasured Memories: A Celebration Of Our Gospel Music Heritage, documenting the rich legacy of gospel music. A second CD collaboration entitled, Third Day Offerings: A Worship Album, allowed him to record with the contemporary Christian Rock group, Third Day, and earned him his first gold record. His most recent contribution to the work of preserving the Negro Spiritual is the website: www.thenegrospiritualinc.com

Born in South Carolina, he began his singing career as a member of the United States Seventh Army soldiers Chorus in Heidelberg, Germany, and as a member of the Fisk Jubilee Singers® while attending Fisk University following his military career. Upon his return to the United States, he earned a Masters of Music and a Doctorate of Musical Arts Degree in Vocal Performance and Opera from the University of Michigan. In 1986, as a recipient of a National Endowment for the Humanities Grant, he co-authored a book entitled, Feel The Spirit-Studies in Nineteenth Century Afro-American Music, published by Greenwood Press.
